CITY TRUSTEES.

All members were present except Mr. Jennings. Demands as follows were referred to the finance committee: Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir Co., $11.65, for water, and Independent Water Co., $5.52 for same; S. Grant, $110.25 for street sprinkling; Glendale Light and Power Co., $51.50, lights for June; Neuner Publishing Co., $16 for assessment blanks for street work; Los Angeles Rubber Stamp Co., $3.00; E. R. Tarling, $2.50 for services as deputy marshal July 4th, and $3.70 commission for license collections; Riggs & Sherer, $3.50 for publishing, $1.75 for job printing; F. H. Martenyohl, $2.50, services as deputy marshal July 4th; F. R. Sinclair, $82.50, salary and incidentals as street superintendent; Verdugo Springs Water Co. $6.50 for water; G. B. Woodberry, $30 for salary; Kaestner & Brown, $16.50 for assessment book.

Demands amounting to $25.65 previously referred to finance committee, were reported favorably and warrants ordered drawn. A warrant was ordered to be issued for $36.50, in payment for electric light service for May. The Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir company sent in a communication stating that the proposition of the city regarding fire plugs is acceptable. The street superintendent reported that he had not secured all the data required concerning the location of hydrants and water mains, but expected to complete this work before the next meeting.

Bids for supplying fire hose were then opened. Bids were as follows:

New Jersey Car Spring and Rubber Co., per Eves & Wilkinson, seventy cents per foot.

Bid of Glendale Hardware Co., sixty cents per foot. Each bid was accompanied by certified check and sample of hose.

Bids were referred to fire committee to report on at next meeting. An application was received from Wm. Woods, of Wood's hotel, for a restaurant liquor license. Same was laid on the table. The street superintendent recommended that the city take over and care for the "parkways," as fast as streets are improved and work accepted; also, that recently improved streets be wet and rolled occasionally for a few months. Referred to board of public works.

The city clerk presented a statement of the financial condition of the city up to June 30th last. (This appears elsewhere.)

The finance committee was empowered to have the books and accounts of the clerk audited by an expert accountant.

The engineer was instructed to recommend a grade for the entire length of I street.

A petition was received signed by H. C. Ackley and twenty others asking that Lomita avenue, from Central to Glendale avenue, be improved by being sidewalked, curbed, graded and oiled. The petition was referred to the city engineer to report on at next meeting. The committee on city printing presented a resolution authorizing the president and clerk to make a contract with the Glendale News to do all the public printing for the City of Glendale at the figures named in the bid submitted by the News; viz., 40 cents per inch for first insertion, and 30 cents per inch for subsequent insertions. Resolution carried.

The street superintendent was instructed to employ sufficient help to properly locate hydrants suitable for use as protection against fire, the expense to be charged to bond fund. Resolution No. 56 adopting map and plans for improvement of Fifth street from Glendale avenue to Verdugo road, was passed.

Resolution of intention to improve a portion of Fifth street, as above, was also adopted.

An ordinance establishing the grade of Lomita avenue, was passed to third reading.

NORTH GLENDALE.

The sound of the busy hammer and saw is in constant evidence these days around Casa Verdugo and the neighborhood immediately west of there.

Mr. S. W. Corwin, a contractor and builder, is putting up for himself on Central avenue, corner of Burchet street, a neat and substantial story and a half house, 28 feet square, which will cost about $2300.

J. E. Rockhold is having built, a seven-room story and ahalf cottage on the corner of Lorraine street and Viola.

Mr. James Daily is building a four-room cottage in the orange orchard west of the old Stubblefield place.

Across the street west from Casa Verdugo, Mr. James Wyvell has the foundation laid for a fine two-story residence with seven rooms and all modern improvements.

The foundation is to consist of artificial cement blocks, and the cost will be about $7000.

Mr. Frank Sadler is constructing a story and a half house of seven rooms, bathroom and all modern conveniences on Louise street near Casa Verdugo. This will be a duplicate of Mr. Rockhold's house, with the addition of one or two features.

The best feature of the building situation in this section, is the fact that every house will be occupied as soon as completed, in most cases the prospective tenants being already on the ground.

Reception

Mrs. Daniel Campbell has issued invitations for a large reception at the Glendale Country Club House on the afternoon of Friday, July 26th, from 3 to 6 o'clock. She is planning a fine musical program for the enjoyment of her guests.

We are glad to see that Mrs. E. B. Newcomb is again able to be about.

NEW ELECTRIC ROAD

Enthusiastic Meeting

As per agreement on the part of Mr. Kuhrts, representing H. E. Huntington, the committee consisting of Messrs. Goode and Blackburn received the railroad company's answer to the request of our citizens on Thursday morning and at once called a meeting of the people to assemble at Odd Fellows' Hall the same evening

Notwithstanding the short notice, there was a good crowd in attendance including a number of ladies. Mr. J. C. Sherer was chosen chairman of the meeting and Mr. F. R. Sinclair acted as secretary.

Mr. Blackburn for the committee reported that the railroad company absolutely refuses to build further west than B street, but will probably concede the through cars. The company will not agree to lay any more than a single track at present, but will probably make it a double track if warranted by the patronage received. The fare will be as low as that given by the Pacific Electric. For the bonus required ($20,000) the track will be laid either to B street or to Third street, on the Childs Tract line (about north of the grammar school). The route contemplated at present is up Verdugo Road to a point about midway between Third and Fourth streets, turning at a right angle westward through the lands of W. E. Ransom and Mr. Phelps to a point just north of the school house property, thence in the same course to B street; or turning northward at the west line of the school property to Third street.

Being put to a vote, the meeting decided with practical unanimity in favor of the B street terminus.

On another motion, the committee was instructed to put forth its efforts to raise the bonus and the additional sum that may be necessary to secure rights of way. As the committee was desirous of assistance in the matter, Messrs. A. K. Crawford, J. P. Lukens and Asa V. Fanset were appointed by resolution of the house, as additional members of the committee. Mr. Hawes, owner of the Sagamore Hills property at the southeast corner of the city, on Verdugo Road, was present and spoke briefly, expressing himself as pleased with the work of the committee and the spirit shown by the meeting; indicating also his readiness to subscribe the major part of the bonus.

Altho there was some evidence of disappointment at the refusal of the railroad people to build to Glendale avenue, there was a very encouraging spirit of harmony prevalent in the meeting that gives promise of success to the enterprise.

The committee began work on the collection of the bonus Friday morning, and have already made very satisfactory progress.

We feel that the road is assured.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mr. James Perry, who is connected with the Glendale Ice company, reached the mature age of 18 years last Wednesday and the affair was celebrated at the residence of his mother, Mrs. E. Perry, on Fifth street. There were about forty guests present, and the evening was spent in various games, interspersed with music. In a contest for the prize Charley Puckett came out first, getting a handsome jewel case, while Johnnie Fishel carried off the booby prize. At 11 o'clock the company adjourned to Mrs. Perry's restaurant, where an elegant repast was spread. The table was beautifully decorated, an immense birthday cake, ornamented in the highest style of the baker's art, holding the post of honor in the center. Chicken pates, angel food, devil food, salads, cake and sherbet, figured in the bill of fare.

The young folks dispersed about midnight, unanimously resolving that Mr. James Perry's birthday party was a grand success, and that if they could have the privilege of attending one of the same kind every week, the problem of living would be much simplified.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eight killed and thirteen injured by powder explosion on battleship Georgia off Provincetown, Mass.

Vice President Fairbanks ignored by city officials at Portland, is banquetted by newspaper men.

Senator Elkins quoted as saying that a "dark horse" will probably secure the presidential nomination. Thinks Cortelyou's chances good.

Dr. Edward B. Taylor appointed Mayor of San Francisco by supervisors, who then tender him their resignations. Schimtz still claims he is mayor.

At Boise, Idaho, prosecution after putting on witnesses in rebuttal, close their case. Will probably go to jury in few days. Prosecutions for perjury threatened by both sides.

Macdonald-Young

Married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Seely, West Second street, Los Angeles, at 8 p. m. Wednesday, July 17th, Mr. David Macdonald, the popular expressman of Glendale, and Miss Barbara W. Young, late of London, England.

Mrs. Dan Campbell of "Ard Evin," Glendale, acted as matron of honor, while Mr. Harry Miller supported the groom.

The bridal party left for parts unknown soon after refreshments had been served, songs sung, and the bride's bouquet disposed of.

The marriage service was read by Dr. Ward, the pastor of the groom.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Holman, of North Glendale, Friday morning, a son.

GLENDALE, CAL., JULY 20, 1907

A man in Indiana has gone crazy in the attempt to memorize all the speeches of W. J. Bryan. He evidently had but a short distance to go.

The dog days are at hand, but this doesn't mean that the canines are to have the privilege of the city, notwithstanding that Sirius is in the ascendant. Dog tax, two dollars.

There are indications that the yellowish journals are not going to get up a war with Japan this summer. Even the headline man of the Los Angeles Times is beginning to hedge.

There is a surplus of $87,000,000 in the national treasury left over from the fiscal year ending June 30th. Uncle Sam ought to be able to keep the wolf, the dragon, or the "Yankee of the Orient" out of his back yard if he wants to, on this showing.

The Raw Silk Industry

We notice that efforts are being made to boom the raw silk industry again in California.

The raising of silk worms for profit is a greater illusion than the chicken business and those who attempt it will find that there is not enough in it to pay for a tithe of the time they devote to it. It is easy enough to raise the mulberry tree upon which the worms feed; they grow like weeds and so do the worms. But the production of raw silk naturally belongs to the people upon whose time there is no particular value set.

The price paid for the raw material is not sufficient to warrant anyone whose time can be usefully put in otherwise, in thinking seriously of taking it up as a business.

Mark Twain in England

Mark Twain is being received with great honors over in England. The University of Oxford has bestowed upon him the degree of Doctor of Letters, and the London papers teem with eulogy of the great humorist.

It seems rather odd to those who are familiar with his work in general that the story of "The Jumping Frog" should be the product of his brain most commonly spoken of in connection with the author by his English admirers. But there is an abundance of evidence showing a full appreciation of his work.

Mr. Sydney Brooks in the Daily Chronicle says: "Oxford never more truly represented the nation than in thus honoring the most distinctive figure in the world of English letters."

Certainly this is high praise, and his fellow countrymen can demand no more of their cousins across the sea.

This, from the article by Mr. Brooks, is most quotable:

"More than any man living has Mark Twain made the world laugh. But his humor has always been on the side of the angels. He has gibed at much, but never at anything that made for goodness and nobility."

The same critic gives due credit to Mr. Clemens for his serious work as in "Joan of Arc," and also speaks of him as being the "very Homer of boyhood," which tribute brings Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn prominently into the foreground of our memory pictures.

We are reminded that England has always shown its appreciation of our literary lions; when they achieve a reputation at home, they usually find that it crosses the Allantic ahead of them. Joaquin Miller and Bret Harte have in their time been the lions of a London season, while the greater lights of our literary firmament, Lowell, Longfellow and a few others, have narrowly escaped with their liberty from the admiration of the mother country, which would almost forcibly have adopted them.

Sulphuring Dried Fruit

The fruit growers of California are alarmed over the application of the Pure Food law which threatens to prevent the sulphuring of our dried fruits, and the governor has requested a suspension of action until the plea of the growers can be heard.

Theoretically, sulphuric acid is a bad thing to put into the human stomach, but as the majority of people put into that much abused organ every day all sorts of ingredients for a chemical compound, the effect of which they do not know either before or after, the small amount of acid taken in with our sun-dried fruit is not likely to be a serious matter.

There are other objections to the sulphuring practice, however. In the first place, it spoils the flavor of the fruit. There are some who prefer the tartness imparted to the dried fruit by sulphuring, but to the ordinary palate we believe that the natural flavor is preferred.

The general market demands that our fruit be light colored, and to give it this appearance the application of sulphur fumes is necessary. But for home use, it will be found that fruit is much better for being dried without sulphur. To the apricot particularly does this apply. Dried without sulphur, this fruit is most delicious, having all the fruit flavor and requiring very little sugar.

In all dried fruits subject to sulphur fumes, the tart flavor of the acid predominates, so that the various fruits to which it is applied retain almost nothing of their individual flavor. The ordinary French prune has its character completely changed by the application of sulphur fumes. Ordinarily when dried it is perfectly black and full of sugar, requiring very little sweetening, but sulphur changes it to a rather attractive reddish color and gives it a tartness which sugar can scarcely remove.

There is an impression in the minds of some people who buy fruit, that the application of sulphur is necessary to preserve it; but this is a mistake. Well dried fruit will keep without any application of the sulphur fumes.

Business Conditions

All the indications point to a continuation of the unprecedented prosperity which the country has enjoyed during the period which began when Wm. McKinley was elected president in 1896, up to the present time.

The seven-year period of Biblical times no longer marks the limitation to which the rise and fall of worldly affairs is subject. But that human conditions are subject to some such limitations, is a fact so clearly proved by the history of the world that it is generally admitted to be beyond debate. And the explanation is simple and found in one of the elements of our composite human nature.

Prosperity for the individual, if long continued, leads to improvidence, and in the business world to the multiplication of projects of the "get-rich-quick" variety, which may result temporarily in an apparent prosperity that not being founded on the rock of conservatism, adds impetus and force to the destructive reaction which inevitably occurs. Many schemes of the latter class have flourished for a few years past and their day is not yet over, but the fact that the people generally have not been taken in by them, has prevented any great disaster. It indicates also the increased intelligence of the people at large, the great educating influence of the press and the more general diffusion of intelligence by many other mediums has rendered it more difficult to impose great schemes upon the public generally.

The world is moving forward so rapidly and with such apparent smoothness along new ways hitherto unknown to the race, at least within the limits of its history, that many precedents are being left behind and no man is wise enough to prophecy when or how the limit will be reached.

It was not long ago regarded as an axiom that presidential years were "off years" in the business world, and there are many who still expect to see our progress checked duriug the coming year on this account; but there are yet no clouds on the horizon to indicate the approach of any disturbance. Even so high an authority as John D. Rockefeller speaks of the future in a spirit of optimism. But probably the most encouraging expression along these lines is that given by Thomas W. Lawson, the brilliant stock broker, whose independence and knowledge of business affairs nearly every one concedes, altho all do not agree with his ideas in general. Mr. Lawson has just returned from a visit to Europe and is enthusiastic over the condition of affairs in the United States as seen from across the water and from the nearer point of view.

The clearing house reports continue to indicate a constantly growing increase in the volume of business; the demand for agricultural and manufactured products has never been exceeded; exports and imports are in a satisfactory condition, and there is a large surplus in the United States treasury, with the largest amount of money per capita in circulation that has ever been known.

Altogether the conditions throughout the country are such as to indicate that under Providence we occupy the proud position of the most highly favored nation.

MARS.

FIRST PAPER.

The most conspicuous object in our evening and midnight sky at the present time, in the absence of the moon, Mars, the planet of ruddy hue, comes next to the earth in order, outwards from the sun, at a mean distance of 141 million miles from the central luminary. Though the nearest planet to the earth his distance from us varies considerably, owing to the eccentricity of his orbit. At his nearest, he is thirty-five million miles from us, and at his farthest, sixty-one million miles. He takes nearly 687 days to accomplish his journey round the sun, and, therefore, the earth makes nearly two revolutions to his one. She overtakes him every 780 days, but the nearest approaches occur only about once in fifteen years. Just now, the earth and Mars are traveling away from each other, having reached their nearest point of this revolution last June.

Mars is one of the most interesting objects for astronomical study, owing to his physical condition being, in many respects, similar to that of the earth, and theoretically we should expect to find in the planet, if anywhere else in the solar system besides on the earth, forms of life not very unlike some of those with which we are familiar. And as a matter of fact, several well-known astronomers have testified to wonderful appearances on the planet which lead them to infer that Mars may be the abode of beings endowed with amazing physical and intellectual powers.

The diameter of Mars is 4200 miles, its surface equal to two-seventh, its volume to one-seventh, those of the earth. But on account of its inferior mean density, it would take nine such planets to equal the mass of the earth. Superficial gravity on Mars is to that of the earth as 38 is to 100, and a man on that planet could leap a wall eight feet four inches high as easily as he could jump a two-foot fence on the earth. The planet turns in 24 hours 37 minutes on its axis, which is inclined from the upright 24½ degrees. Its seasons, therefore, much resemble our own, except that they are nearly twice as long. The prevailing color of the planet's disc as seen by unaided vision, is redish or dull orange. His color is supposed to be due to some inherent peculiarity of the soil; it is permanent and unaffected by the seasons, neither fading nor flushing at the approach of winter or summer. The telescope, however, reveals several other colors; other tints of red, dark greyish-green and pure white, the latter forming a brilliant cap at each pole of the planet, which is seen to disappear as the local summer advances, to regain its original size however, with unfailing regularity, with the return of winter. Nowhere in the sky do we see evidences of seasonal change. We cannot doubt that the polar caps are composed of snow, which proves the presence of water, of which, however, there seems to be quite a scarcity on Mars.

The Martian atmosphere is probably very attenuated, being about one-seventh the superficial density of our own. Owing, however, to the reduced strength of gravity on Mars this atmospheric envelope is very extensive and its movements of a very mild and gentle character.

All these observed facts are just what we should expect on Mars; for being so much smaller than the earth, he is relatively much further advanced in his evolutionary career. His smaller size would cause him to cool faster, and, therefore, he would age more quickly. But as a planet cools and grows old, its oceans dry up, the water retreating through cracks and caverns into the interior, as we see has actually completely taken place on our satellite. This process, however, has not progressed so far on Mars, the seas there appearing midway in their career from real seas to arid depressed deserts; no longer permanent water surfaces, they are still the lowest portions of the planet, and stand ready to receive what scant water may travel to them from the poles.

Mars had two tiny moons, appropriately named Phobos (Fear) and Deimos (Dread) as attendant on the God of War. Phobos is about 30 miles in diameter, and circulates round the planet in seven hours thirty minutes, at a distance of only 3700 miles. Deimos, not more than ten miles in diameter, at a distance of 12,500 miles, makes his journey round Mars in 30 hours and 18 minutes. These moons are said to be a remarkable pair. The inner, Phobos, is the only satellite, which travels faster than its primary rotates. In consequence of this, it must rise in the West and set in the East. The outer satellite, Deimos, revolves in a period so nearly that of the planet, that it goes through all its phases twice between the times of rising and setting.

The remarkable appearances seen by some observers on the surface of Mars, which have given rise to considerable controversy, must form the subject of another paper.

Copies of our two local papers are regularly received from the publishers.

Especial thanks are due to the parties who contributed current numbers of magazines and if there are others who have such they will be appreciated for the reading table.

Should there be any failure in crediting literature, parties will please report such at the library.

As has been heretofore stated, the library is free to the public, but a fine of five cents a day, which amount is fixed by the State, is charged on State traveling library books after the two-week limit, and two cents a day on books and magazines belonging to the Tuesday Afternoon Club.

The club has recently had an attractive library sign put up.

The ladies are now paying a librarian's salary from the club funds. They appreciate the continued co-operation of individual citizens in contributing the amount of the room rent, which must be raised in some way until the library becomes a public institution, supported by taxation.

The thanks of the club and community are due Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, who generously contributed her services at the library for two months, during which time she did appreciated work in continiung the classification of literature and other important library work.

Miss Mabel Patterson, as librarian for six weeks, has done efficient work in completing the classification and stamping of a large number of magazines, and her apparent qualification for the work is appreciated by the management and the public.

There have been, during the past few months, various suggestions and movements in regard to the future of the library. Mr. C. E. Stanley kindly offered to build or allow the ladies to build a suitable structure for club and library purposes on his lot on Glendale avenue. The outcome of the action of the city trustees to secure a Carnegie library, which has not been consummated, is awaited with interest.

Pending the result of some of these various projects the library remains in the comfortable store room on Third street and is open on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from one to six o'clock.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

Our church is enjoying a fine growth. Many Sabbaths during the year there have been additions. Last Sabbath one of our strong good business men united with us.

Epworth League and church services were held together last Sabbath evening. The League was lead by Miss Mary Blackburn and was a delightful meeting. At eight o'clock Rev. W. S. Blackburn preached a very helpful sermon. At all the services the music was good.

Next Sabbath morning the sermon will be the second of the course of nine sermons on the Lord's Prayer.

The W. H. M. S. met in regular monthly session on Tuesday at 2:30. Good attendance, good interest, splendid program. Epworth League convention on July 26 and 27, at Huntington Beach and will be followed by camp meeting on July 28 and continue over three Sabbaths. A number of our people will attend.

Miss Octavia Hudson, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, is stopping with us. She hopes to remain here, making her home at Glendale; if she does her father and mother will come later. Miss Hudson has had ten years as a teacher of music.

One evening this week the young people went in and gave Bro. Puckett a splendid time by singing, and a time in general. Mrs. Puckett treated the young folks grandly. The family say come again.

The Masonic Fraternity had charge of the beautiful funeral service of Mr. Smalley last Sabbath, and it was made very impressive. Mr. Smalley had been afflicted for a long time. Representatives from Glendale were present and gave a short memorial in honor of Emily, whose body had been removed from the city to Tropico. Mr. Fred Hezmalhalch sang very sweetly "Shall We Gather at the River."

Election of delegates from our church to the annual conference will be held on the evening of July 25th, at 8:30.

The young son of Mr. R. C. Clark and Mrs. Alice Thatcher Clark, of Albia, Iowa, has been made a name sake of the pastor of the M. E. church here. May he live long and be wise and strong, is our earnest wish.

The Sunday School picnic from here to the Playa del Rey beach, on Thursday, was well attended and in every way a great success. Thanks to Bro. T. W. Watson, superintendent, and the committee that aided him in making such complete arrangements.

No, thank you, we do not care for "The Sign of the Times." We have our own papers and do not care for one so radically different and so strongly denominational. We question such methods of trying to make inroads on other people's faith.

DEATH OF MRS. ALTER.

Mrs. Elizabeth Alter, died at 135 a. m. last Sunday at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Wm. Marchant, on L street. She was born Elizabeth Chichester, in Treble county, Ohio, Dec. 19th, 1821, and was therefore over 85 years of age. She was married in 1846 to Mr. Henry Delaplain, and of this union one daughter survives. After living a widow for some years she married Mr. J. Alter on April 3rd, 1865. Three daughters were born of this marriage, all of whom survive.

Mr. Alter died in 1897 and his widow soon afterwards came to California, alternating between this State and Kansas, since that time. She has been living for the past few months with her daughters, three of whom reside in Glendale, Mrs. Hatfield and the two Mrs. Marchant.

GONE HOME.

On Monday morning at 1:35 one of the members of Calvary Baptist church went to be with her Lord. Seventy-three years ago Sister Alter gave her heart to him and her testimony to the last was, that he had proven worthy of the trust. Some of us have only known her for a short time, but she has proven an inspiration to us. Her cheerfulness of manner, her loyalty to Christ and his church, her implicit faith in His word, was felt more and more as we knew her better, and we felt that we were better because of the knowing.

We wish that she could have remained longer with us, and yet that would be selfish, for already has she remained fifteen years beyond the alloted time, and hath well earned the right to her eternal reward.

We desire to extend our sympathy to those who mourn her loss.

W. F. STONE.

Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip

A new organization was effected on the evening of July 9th by the male members of Calvary Baptist church of Glendale, its object being to encourage and assist all men to walk in the Christian life, to extend to men of all social conditions the hand of brotherly affection, by kind looks and acts, to greet strangers with cordiality, and to show to the world by practical teaching that all men are the creatures of one heavenly parent, who would have all men live by the "Golden Rule," to "do unto others as you would that others do unto you," who commendeth all men to the Son of God, that salvation may come, through Jesus Christ, to all men.

To this end, through the various social agencies of our Brotherhood, we invite men everywhere to join our ranks and be one of us. None excluded. All are welcome. No money to join. Come and go with us.

Sunday School Picnic

The picnic of the Methodist Sunday school at Playa del Rey last Thursday was a great success. There were over a hundred in attendance from Glendale. Owing to the fact that the Pacific Electric management would grant no reduction in fares and not even consent to put on an extra car for their accommodation, over ninety of the picnickers chartered special teams and were driven over to the lines of the Los Angeles Pacific at Prospect Park. The treatment accorded them by the officials of this road was quite in contrast with that received from Mr. McMillan. They were given a substantial reduction on their tickets and a special car. They found the hotel at Playa del Rey crowded, but were shown special attention and given everything required for their convenience and comfort. It was a red letter day for all who attended.

Better than Money

A Certificate of Deposit issued by the Bank of Glendale is better than money, because it will draw four per cent interest if left six months. It can be transferred to another person, and if lost or stolen is of absolutely no use in the hands of the wrong person. Is money in your pocket as good? 2w12

GLEANINGS.

Happiness is a habit—cultivate it.

If you've got a devil, put him to work.

The only right I want is the right to be useful.

Life is a dangerous business; few get out of it alive.

Thought is a conscious force—language is only a spigot. Most people need plumbers.

It's the first thing in the world to live—most people only exist.

The man who pursues pleasure will never catch up with her.

Reflect upon your present blessings of which every man has many, not on your past misfortunes of which all men have some.—GRIP STRAPS.

The church is fortunate in that Mrs. Stella Orth, who has lately moved to Burbank and taken membership in the church, will take charge of the music, reorganize the choir, and try to make this part of the worship not merely pleasing to man, but glorifying to God.
